

Uganda (Aloe amudatensis)

This is a very small Ugandan aloe that, to me, is very hard to tell from a much more common species in cultivation, ellenbeckii.

Rating: Not Rated Yet

Price

Sales price R 65,00

Ask a question about this product

African Aloe: Uganda (Aloe amudatensis)

Description

Description

This is a very small Ugandan aloe that, to me, is very hard to tell from a much more common species in cultivation, ellenbeckii. Both are small, spotted, soft, relatively thin-leaved, stemless plants with very simple inflorescences of yellow and orange flowers. A ellenbeckii is a very aggressively suckering plant, while, in my limited experience, Aloe amudatensis is much more solitary species.

View source for more information: https://species.wikimedia.org/wiki/Aloe_amudatensis or Visit <https://www.agaveville.org/viewtopic.php?f=26&t=567>

Reviews

There are yet no reviews for this product.